First Ebola case reported in USA. Metabiota's market cap just doubled!
Nathan's opening line is spot on unfortunately.

Hong Kong Protesters Turn Tables and Form Own Internet

Protesters were able to circumvent cut off cell phone service and various social media shutdowns by using a new messaging app called FireChat. The app works on the Bluetooth system of phones, allow messages to leap from one phone to another without using traditional phone networks. Beijing appears desperate to keep mainland residents from seeing any media coverage of the events, and the government has essentially blocked all access to search terms that might bring them up on social media.
