- I relate a lot with Gil. On one hand, I want to get out and have all sorts of adventures. Be challenged, experience and plunder what life has to offer. Then others times I want to stay home, be cozy, and play video games. The laziest yet most hardworking king he is Apr 30, 2021 🗨
- I dislike a lot of things about Carnival Phantasm but I appreciate the race episode. - @CrayCrayMuch You know, he would totally call THAT his wealth or "giving his wealth" to his wife. Along with the typical, archaic names for it. Because every aspect of his body /must/ be perfect and the most important thing ever, even his own "wealth" 🤔 Apr 27, 2021 🗨

It was like nearly 2000-3500 yen to ship the little figure, so I hope this figure doesn't change the amount and make paying that much worth it. - I think his circumstance in FSN is weird. With Nasu being pressured with the Fate route, then Gil's 2/3rds divine POV, he makes very inhumane decisions. But he doesn't do what he does for the sake of evil, outside Artoria. That's why I can't type him as a villain like Kirei 😞 Jan 04, 2021 🗨️
- Yes, I do love Gil. Do I agree with what he does in FSN? No. Absolutely not. Even if I understand some of his POV, he does horrible things and accepts horrible things. - @BlueStalice_ Like I still get excited about new fandoms/hobbies but I've kind of reached a plateau (Gil, witchy stuff, games, sometimes small amounts of other anime merch). But that's my own experience so far 😞 But yeah as long as it sparks joy you know. I know my replies won't get rid of— Jan 03, 2021 🗨️

- @BlueStalice_ I'm sorry you feel that way. From one collector to another—I still have figures and merch from when I first started way back in 2013 that I love a lot still, especially with the memories attached. - Once again, this is Diana is super tired for no reason and could probably write a 100k word essay on Gil if not my planned 200k+ four act fic Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- Gil is a walking, talking misunderstanding 🤔 I feel he's incredibly detailed and deep as a character, especially if you consider his kingly dilemma in context to Andrew George's intro essay to the original Epic. His goofiness, jokes, extraneous, & memes just add that extra spice Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- Archer Gil still can be supportive and understanding like Caster under the right circumstances. He does so with Waver in FZ. Caster Gil still can be a kingly jerk and bully like Archer under most circumstances. His birthday line and first interlude... Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- So hnnng yeah While I get preferring one Gil over the other, especially considering the bs Archer Gil does in FSN/FZ. He's still the same person so it makes no sense to hate one but like the other to me. Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- Also I realized ko-Gil totally explains the differences among the "Gil triune". All of them have the same traits and personality, just different levels due to class and age. <https://t.co/FvTkN4NKrz> Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- Again, I hope SF gets an anime to see him animated in various other emotions or contexts (like interacting with Enkidu!). FSN/FZ Gil's range isn't as large as Casgil's...which is why people seem to prefer Casgil more. 😬 Dec 30, 2020 🗨️
- He's really multi-faceted as a character, & the Archer/Caster/Classless aspect brings out different parts of the same whole. Although his situation as 2/3rds divine lynchpin king is difficult to empathize with, we can sympathize with his growth and experience with loneliness/loss Dec 30, 2020 🗨️

- Why engage in that human stuff when he's the king. Even in his actual mythology, kings were made separately from humans, regardless of divine nature or not. He is, quite literally, a different being. Yet, had to learn to be human in the failed immortality quest. Dec 09, 2020 🗨️
- Kind of sad considering he's basically the "guy who has it and did it all". Except for you know Spending the rest of his life with Enkidu Never, in Fate, raising a family and a heir like the OG Gilgamesh did. So basically, the 1/3rd human stuff he deprived himself of Dec 09, 2020 🗨️
- I think this is one reason why he likes himself yet hates himself, besides blaming himself for Enkidu's death. It's a cycle of not being able to understand neither gods nor humans, being left out from this and his insistence on being alone as a king, and intimidating people away Dec 09, 2020 🗨️
- Anything he does is laced with hubris because he knows no other way after acting as "the cold wind" and refusing to get along with anyone except Enkidu. He refuses to love or grow attached, but, when he finds himself doing so, kamideres or tsunderes essentially. <https://t.co/F09bib4rMR> Dec 09, 2020 🗨️

- Oh ye...there are some parts in the Babylonia anime where Casgil is very playful and open but that's kind of akin to his summer version where he's not held back by burdens so much. Probably why people like Caster more because he's closer to "average" like CCC Gil <https://t.co/LhJOKskHpK> Nov 30, 2020 🗨
- This diagram goes through my mind every time someone asks me if I like Archer or Caster Gil the best, so it's hard to explain my favorite Gil is all of them but who he honestly aka CCC+tapestry is the closest. <https://t.co/9tDH07L3F0> Nov 30, 2020 🗨

- Gil just has too many other factors that influence how he acts. Besides how his Master acts (<https://t.co/hLwFSbJpYI>) and how society or his environment is. 🍷 Nov 30, 2020 🗨
- So, I think it's safe to say that Gil, as a whole in his 2/3rds god part, is composed of a wise king and hero king. Where the 1/3rd human part of him is who he honestly is and won't show except to Enkidu and/or CCC tapestry POV. Nov 30, 2020 🗨
- Even if Casgil is "after immortality herb", I still think he represents a softer side to Gil that got brought out from the experience besides him growing wiser. Servants are weird because even Archer acts like he came back from that quest, but didn't learn anything behaviorally Nov 30, 2020 🗨

- I love Gil and Enkidu's relationship because if I ship them platonically or someone ships them romantically, we both can agree how much Gil/Enkidu mean to each other. The dynamic of their relationship runs the same in their story regardless of how you see it or ship it. Oct 26, 2020 🗨

- @riffataraa CCC is very uh fan-service-y. But also very good. Especially Gil's route. - @deerandberries I don't go looking into fandom stuff unless I'm having a good day because I'm bound to see people write bad things or assert stuff (incorrect or not). I block a lot of people for my sanity. I focus on Gil and his family, and the sources of it that actually matter Aug 01, 2020 🗨
- @deerandberries 2. For Enkidu, I also ignore it and focus on what canon gives me, and define it as it's meant to be. Sadly creators get influenced by people wanting ships and it ALWAYS goes wrong. So you have that argument that the creators messed up like they did with early FSN Gil ;; Aug 01, 2020 🗨
- @deerandberries 1. For that particular ship, I ignore it and assert my stance when necessary, although I don't go looking for it. Any interactions or comments (we will see Gil say something about a doujin in FGO Summer 3 sadly) I see as not shippy and more rival-like or fan-like from him. Aug 01, 2020 🗨
- @deerandberries I'm sorry that sounds rough I understand tho, similar things with Gil in the FSN visual novel and FZ novels done because the writers didn't know what they were doing. - I have tons. He's not evil and most of his actions/words push people away due to his experiences plus culture. He's the same person as Caster Gil. - Gilgamesh dating simulator? 🤖 <https://t.co/9NJKQOANKi> Jun 02, 2020
- If you ever manage to get past that point, well then, you get the a ridiculously teasy and affectionate tsundere who loves to say things out of a romance novel ("You, illuminated by the sunset, are – without a doubt – that which I treasure.") <https://t.co/eFOQtPfqph> Jun 01, 2020
- When Gil is put in that situation of seeing someone worthy of love, he ends up truly showing that he's mankind's oldest tsundere <https://t.co/egGmSPuNdK> Jun 01, 2020
- The CCC materials basically proves that Gil isn't unfeeling despite calling him that; he hides it away and refuses to act on it. To him, it's more important to act as the "cold wind" and be the hard parent, staying lonely to respect his only friend. <https://t.co/ePqXB8hQVV> Jun 01, 2020
- It's obvious he equates human innovation to his love of humanity. But, that's not necessarily a wrong reason to like humans. In some essence love does have a give-and-take materialistic portion to its core. Gil has strange personality quirks (doesn't royalty normally? lol) Jun 01, 2020
- Materials make Gil sound like he's an evil, unempathetic horrible person. When, really, he plays up those traits, his "perfection" (which he even apologizes for over-exaggerating about in CCC) to play out his Kingly role and the whole Enkidu stuff. Jun 01, 2020
- I suppose this is from not wanting to undermine his friendship with Enkidu and being scarred by Enkidu's death. Merlin says Gil will "never feel for anyone" and that's, not necessarily true. Gil does feel, he just plays tango and pushes people away on purpose. Jun 01, 2020
- Reading CCC material says that Gil is "unfeeling, a tyrant, and has no ear for the opinion of humans". He only loves treasure/tools. Yet, this is because he considers things too transient, even if he thinks someone is worthy of his love Jun 01, 2020

- Gil is a goof because he acts like he's some big villain but he's really not...🤔 I wish people would stop debating if chaotic good fits him and look at his POV in FSN/FZ and then compare it to Babylonia. You see /no difference/ except his surroundings and circumstance. May 17, 2020 🗨
- FZ does a poor job with handling Gil's characterization. FSN tries to show Gil with the grey mortality of his time not meshing well with modern ethics. Except the Fate route which basically threw that ALL out the window just to turn him into a one-dimensional eroge antagonist u_u May 17, 2020 🗨
- Isklander and Artoria had their various problems, caused their kingdoms to shatter. Gil's prevailed. The worst he did was be a rampaging hormonal teen before Enkidu and leave for the immortality herb. But, he built Uruk and it persisted past his peaceful death. May 17, 2020 🗨

- I dunno, was reminded of that. I don't want Type Moon to suddenly be like "oh Gil is acting like the antagonist again!" Leave him alone 😅 he got his just desserts in FSN. We already know that he's not evil but a good guy with lots of complications/kamidere Apr 08, 2020 🗨
- I can only think that it's related to him feeling the effects of sleeping in the far side of the moon for so long. It's the entire point of his conversation with Artoria in his Extella side-story. Extella-verse still remains a big mystery Apr 08, 2020 🗨
- Gil, especially archer, is a treasure hunter for sure, but it's not really like him, in his Extella/CCC state to go around killing for people's treasures. He usually takes the stance of "it belongs to me so I don't need to fight for it" in his worse moods. Apr 08, 2020 🗨
- That's why I don't understand what his role is going for in Extella Link. Tool tips say he's become a "servant hunter", trying to take their noble phantasms for whatever reason to learn about the overall source for everything. it's...in character but also very out Apr 08, 2020 🗨
- Also Gil's obsession with indoor pools, swimming, and bathing suits. 😅 I mean he opened Waku Waku Splash Time in FSN as a kid (apparently) and continues to harp about wanting it in CCC. Apr 08, 2020 🗨
- I feel like people don't capitalize enough on the fact that Gil loves to play business man and architect. Except it's like someone with access to infinite motherload/rosebud cheats playing the Sims picking the most expensive/gaudiest items in the catalog. Apr 08, 2020 🗨

- All I'll say is that when I say "I love Gil", it has a super special meaning to me, to the extreme point of him being one of the—maybe 3 or 4 reasons why I get up in the morning, push myself through n/ursing school, and generally not kill myself. \(_/_/\) Jan 09, 2020 🗨
- @koppiehart It's hard for him to be vulnerable but he's likely to be around those he likes and sees as an equal. He can possibly be vulnerable as a power bottom since he's essentially "letting" the other person make him vulnerable 🤔 Jan 09, 2020 🗨
- @koppiehart I'm opposite I'd rather see him doing that than anything else. :p Jan 08, 2020 🗨
- @koppiehart It's because people want to see a dominant character in a non-dominant position for the purposes of shipping LMAO Not my thing at all, but I get it. 🤔 Jan 08, 2020 🗨

- @koppiehart I'm pretty sure Gil isn't a bottom even if he's put with one of those three. ^^; Out of all of them, he's pretty much a carnivore and loves his power/dominance. Power bottom at best, but top for sure (and canon). If anything, he'd likely be a switch with Ozy (and maybe Merlin). Jan 08, 2020 ㊦
