

Liam Donovan Music Drama Explanation/Response

This document was written primarily by Silly Strawberry, Ratt Fink, and Wolfsbane with aribobari having written the Reddit bans segment. Additional proofreading was conducted by former moderators who prefer to remain unnamed at this time.

To preface, three out of four of us who called in have had very little interaction with the commentary community. Two of us learned about Liam and Kai's history after the Discord nuke due to a lack of accountability and heavy-handed censorship of any reference to previous Lerix/Luhrix/Laraze content. Ratt Fink had never heard of Lerix prior to becoming community members on the music channel and was unaware of the controversies he had been involved in until January of this year. Both Quinn and Strawberry learned about Lerix in August of 2025. Writing as Ratt Fink, I personally just heard he was an edgy teen YouTuber early on then realized that is not the whole truth (he continued being Lerix well after becoming an adult, though in all fairness he isn't all there genuinely) and I didn't care to go dig up stuff about some streamer I watched.

In response to the call-in on PurpleParryGaming's stream with some of Liam's ex-mods (Quinn, Silly Strawberry, and Wolfsbane) and a viewer (Ratt Fink), Liam made the following stream, linking it in a subsequent reddit post the next day.

Edited Video of Segment + Call In:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UDu79gexG0E>

The call-in with Parry was neither organized nor as thorough as it should have been to spread the details of what had happened within the Discord and community as a whole. Despite our mistakes, we appreciate Parry having reached out to offer an interview on his platform. We did not anticipate the volume of attention it would receive and had previously planned to release all our information in a professional manner at a later date. The Parry stream was not taken as seriously as an initial call-out should be. It was a last minute decision that was supported by very little forethought; leading to a number of misunderstandings as well as some jokes and nitpicks being mixed in with genuine solid criticism. Even so, Liam's response was not only highly inaccurate and selective, but also a misrepresentation of our intent as a whole. We personally take responsibility for any misinformation spread from our stream appearance and intend to clean up as much of our mess as possible while also bringing our claims together more concretely with evidence to support the major claims that Liam has attempted to sweep under the rug.

Liam's Repeated Negligence of a Minor's SELF Dox

During our call-in to Parry's stream, some details were not properly explained and some statements were improperly worded. Due to this blunder, our comments were taken out of context and twisted against us in Liam's response, thus misconstrued to others. We take personal accountability for the direct claim of Liam doxxing a child, and neither at the time, nor currently, do we believe the definition of doxxing fits the situation. The minor's information was not revealed intentionally or with malicious intent, and the colloquial use of the term enabled Liam to downplay what is undoubtedly a serious concern. The proper terms to describe the situation would be; unintentionally broadcasting a minor's self-dox and initially dismissing the situation, even when informed. In addition to this, Liam also has made the decision to downplay the severity of his mistake and not admit to his fault.

On the Liam Donovan Music streams, Liam would do introductory Subreddit segments where he would comment on posts in an effort to build community engagement, fairly standard. During this time, it is important to note that Liam was the sole moderator of his subreddit, and it has been as such since the former admin, BlueDiamond, announced his departure in early December 2025. Despite the voiced concern over the lack of Subreddit moderation (due to Liam himself being inattentive even prior to these events), Liam made no attempt to add further moderation to his space.

On a stream that has now been removed from the channel due to copyright claims, he was in the midst of the Reddit segment when he came across a post of a "room tour" (series of images showing various areas with clear child-like decor and clutter) made by a minor within the community (additionally the channel, at the time, explicitly did not intend to pander to minors). Contained within one of these room tour images, a 6th grade certificate is plainly visible, unblurred, displaying their full legal name, school, and the date it was received, meaning their age to probably be in the range of eleven to twelve years old. The minor evidently, and for obvious reasons, did not identify that they had put themselves at risk. Liam had not noticed anything off upon first inspection of the images. However, several moderators noticed, and immediately sent direct messages to Liam about the situation, while the rest of the moderators attempted to alert Liam via the YouTube chat to check his DMs. The minor was immediately banned from both Youtube and Twitch by the moderators, however, they still had access to the subreddit.

In the first image below, you can see that Silly Strawberry sent Liam a DM at 7:54 pm. Liam certainly saw this message during the stream and was made aware of the situation. He proceeded to respond with instructions for moderation to have the child take the post down themselves. His immediate reaction wasn't to just delete the post and ban the child, instead, he likely intended to leave the child responsible with deleting their own post. Liam also encouraged his moderators to privately contact an individual believed to be an eleven-year-old. This behavior is negligent even with the best moderation team, but especially egregious in this scenario as no one chosen for a Discord mod position had ever been personally vetted by Liam. After this, he proceeded to move into a video segment he was recording for YouTube while the minor remained unresponsive to any DMs, so they could not take the post down themselves like Liam had suggested. During the Youtube video segment, we chose to not mention the situation in case one of the messages in chat ended up in a video, but many people continued to remind Liam to check his DMs. After the video segment, he reads the DM sent by Silly Strawberry at 8:31 pm, (second image) which attempts to concisely explain the situation. In response to this DM, Liam finally deleted the post, at least 30 minutes after he was first made aware of the concern. While doing so, Liam jokingly proceeded to call us "needy" and "the worst mod team ever", claiming that he couldn't tell if it was a serious situation or people trolling. As a reminder, none of us were responsible for the safety of the Subreddit, despite having shown interest in doing so. We raised this situation to Liam out of our own personal concern as we had no power to directly solve the issue.

Following the stream, Liam came into the mod chat on his server to talk with us. We told him that the minor had been banned off of Youtube and Twitch. Our reasoning was that an 11-12-year-old should not be directly interacting with an online community such as Liam's especially with the content's general maturity level. It is also simply a violation of both Youtube and Twitch's TOS. After the accidental self-dox, the minor's privacy was also now at risk, and we knew it was best for their safety to be banned from the community. We requested Liam ban them from his Subreddit as well, as only he held the power to do so. When we told Liam about this, he reacted with surprise (see the attached images) stating that the minor was a prominent community member and it would be "weird" to ban them. After further discussion, Liam agreed to ban the minor. We did not include all the images in the Parry call-in as Liam mentioned, but afterwards Liam did request of us to tell the minor why he'd been banned, once again indirectly encouraging unsupervised contact. Fortunately, it was handled professionally by Strawberry (see attached). We told him to edit out the segment/vod as well, providing the timestamps to do so, but to our knowledge the entire stream was shortly taken down because of copyright (will go more into detail later) before he made the changes. He also did not ban the minor on reddit; the minor left on his own because he was told to, not because he was banned.

In Liam's stream responding to this, a few ex mods and community members in chat were spamming things along the lines of "talk about the 11 year old you doxxed" and "Liam doxxed an 11 year old." These are very exaggerated statements, and it was wrong of us to say these things. Liam did not have malicious intent when he showed the dox; he was not aware of it at first. He did not dox the minor either, he just broadcasted it without realizing. This was not his fault. However, his approach to the situation warrants criticism and accountability; it was handled extremely poorly, with little discretion or care. Liam stated that he did not know when to take something seriously when a mod tells him to check DMs during stream, but even after reading the initial DM, his response to the situation was extremely lackluster. It should not have been on an unverified Discord mod to personally contact a minor, nor should it have been on the child to remove their own post. It should never be a child's sole responsibility to keep themselves safe online, and his reluctance to act was irresponsible and inappropriate. He simply could've paused the stream and taken care of it, but instead he let it sit for over half an hour and acted like his mods were being needy and unreasonable. Liam also states in his response that the dox was not noticeable if both he and the minor missed it. Not only was it clearly visible in the photo, but if half of his mods noticed it when he showed it for the brief amount of time he did, it definitely was noticeable. Regardless, this does not excuse his behavior as any reveal of a minor's information on the internet should be met with immediate action, not hesitation.

As mentioned before, the stream was taken down because of copyright. However, the stream was not taken down globally, and it was still available in multiple territories or through use of a VPN until the 17th of February, when it was brought to Liam's attention by a former mod. Currently, the stream is officially taken down. However, this confirms that Liam never formally verified that the stream was taken down, despite his mods urging him to edit the clip out or delete the VOD.

HEY [REDACTED] sorry to dm you again, but wolf noticed in your room tour post that you have a certificate or smth with your name on it?? we don't have a reddit mod and liam won't delete it, so could you please delete it just for safety?

sillystrawb3rryy 8:04 PM

hi again [REDACTED] idk if you've seen my message but can you let me know if you see this and when you delete it?

sillystrawberry 12:36 AM
hi again, i'm so so sorry to be the one to tell you this, but the other mods and i came to the conclusion that it's best for you to not be able to post here or interact with chat. we came to this conclusion after the post i mentioned earlier (it's been deleted, so there's no need to worry) as we don't want to risk putting you in danger online. we've all loved the fanart you've posted and having you in the community, but having someone so young online is not only a violation of the TOS but also puts you in an unsafe position. we hate that we had to do this, but we do think that this is for the best. you are still able to watch liam's videos and all, though. again, we're all very sorry, but please do stay safe

Mod chat post-stream:

A screenshot of a Discord chat conversation with a dark theme. The chat shows a series of messages from various users. The first message is from 'silly strawberry' at 11:51 PM, stating that someone is banned on YouTube and Twitch. 'Liam' responds with 'woah wait'. 'silly strawberry' asks 'hm?'. 'quinn' (with a 'DTTO' tag) says 'wait what'. 'Liam' asks if they shouldn't be allowed in the Discord but were banned from the channel. 'brainworms' (with a 'VKGY' tag) says 'just from typing'. 'silly strawberry' replies that the person can still watch videos. 'aribobari' concludes that it was a precaution.

silly strawberry 1/6/2026 11:51 PM
he's also banned on the youtube and twitch, we think it's for the best idk tho maybe it is better just feels bad

 quinn  1/6/2026 11:53 PM
i know it sucks but at the end of the day its for a childs safety

 @Liam ok ok i hear u it's just like idk feels weird cuz they make so much fan art and have been aroun...

 silly strawberry 1/6/2026 11:54 PM
they do make tons of fanart and contribute a lot, i totally get that. but i think it's js not safe for him

 Liam 1/6/2026 11:54 PM
sure ya alright

give him the timestamp to trim the vod too if you want

 Wolfsbane  1/6/2026 11:54 PM
I get it, but you ban people you dont want to be involved in the community anymore that have contributed heavily too for reasons that are important

can one of you message him tho explaining

 silly strawberry 1/6/2026 11:54 PM
i felt like shit for banning him when he moved to the twitch, but he's not even a teen

 @Liam can one of you message him tho explaining aribobari 1/6/2026 11:54 PM

For sure we're gonna explain

 @Wolfsbane  I get it, but you ban people you dont want to be involved in the community any...

 Liam 1/6/2026 11:54 PM
hmm?

 @Liam can one of you message him tho explaining

 silly strawberry 1/6/2026 11:54 PM
i dm'd him on reddit asking to take down the post before, but i can totally do that yeah

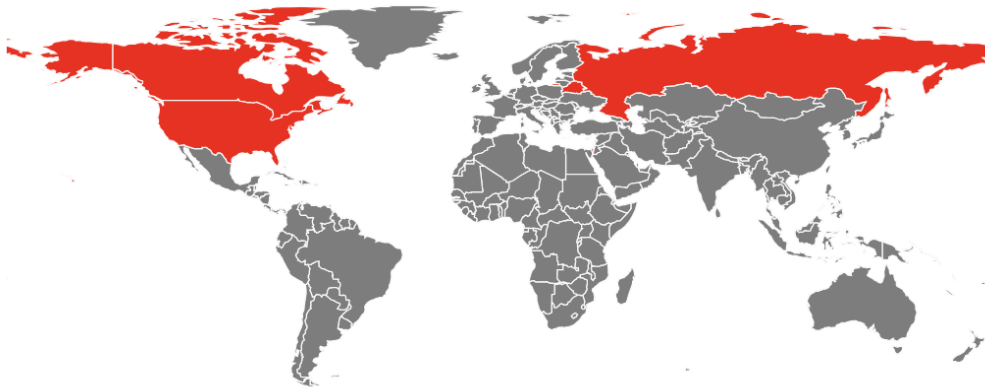

Proof that the stream with the post was taken down because of copyright, not Liam.

The Joke Alts

It was obvious the accounts Liam mentions were gay-ops (they are literally all named Muhammed with the exception being two named after Spencer and Camden Jerrard Davis). There was never even an inkling of an idea in our minds to screenshot our own posts to show anyone other than each other, and we made no attempt to spread these posts around. Anyone who cared enough to look at the usernames would see that they were just shitter accounts and not actual stupid 12-year-olds. Making the alts was a poor decision, but they were not made with any serious intent. The claim that we were doing so in an effort to gain power in community spaces is completely false, and any requests for moderation permissions were done out of a genuine desire to protect the community. Also, we never crossed the line of asking for porn of Liam. In the post Liam himself shows, nowhere does it mention porn as you can see in the image attached. Fanfiction does not automatically equate to porn and the way Liam portrayed the post is clearly not how it reads. It's understandable to get upset about the alts being made; it was very immature of us and in hindsight, it shouldn't have happened in the first place. However, it is a bold-faced lie to claim that we were asking for porn or trying to make his community look bad (the Subreddit posts have mostly been made by children for a while now). Be upset at us for being annoying dickheads, but don't go and say that we did something of that severity when you know it isn't true.

The Discord Nuke

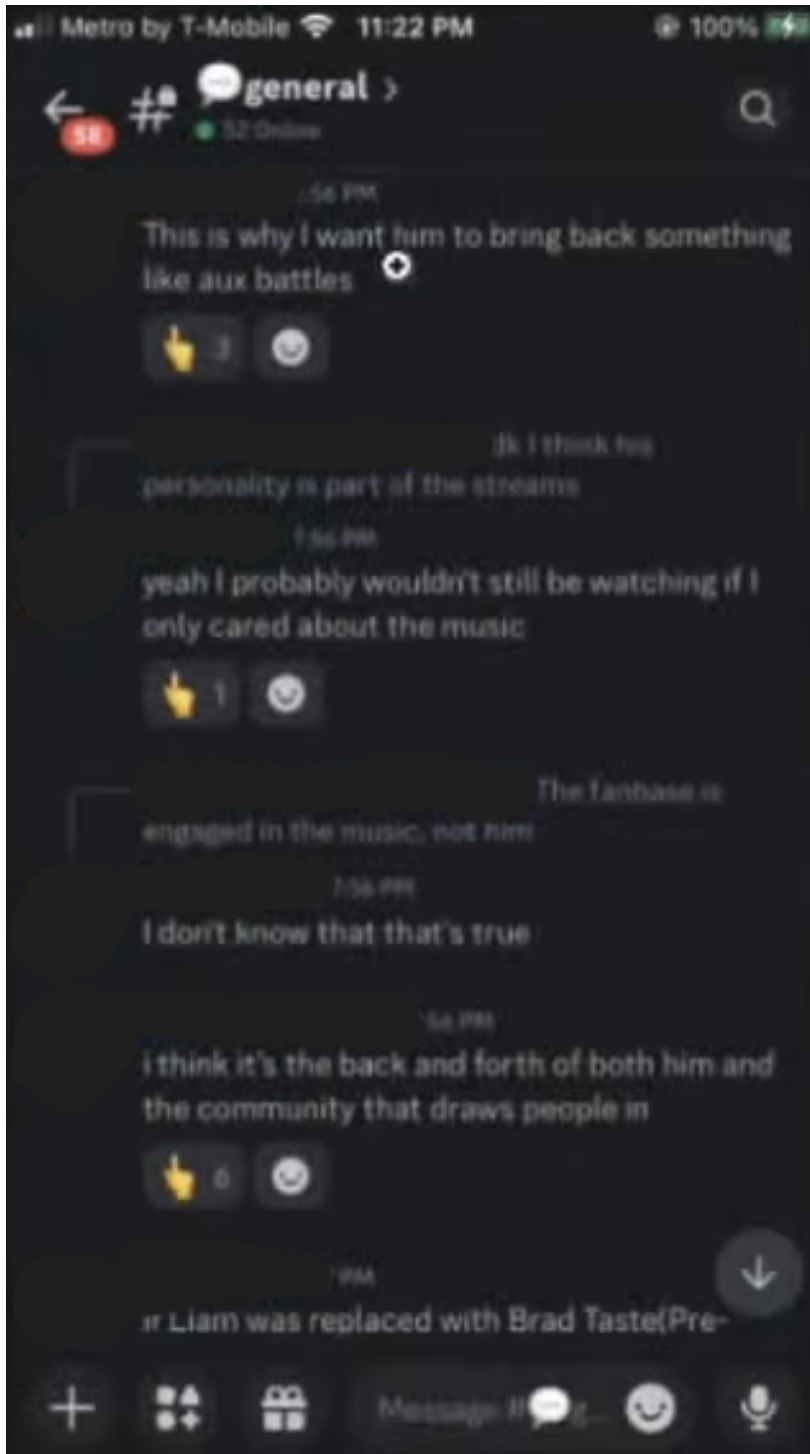

On a January stream, Liam covered the closing of the brief community Discord, citing that people were fostering negative energy and the responsibility was too much to handle. He mentioned how one specific member was being considerably mean (those photos will be seen below). Even if you take these particular statements as crossing the line, it was one person who proceeded to calm down and reeled it in once he was told that he was being a little harsh. The rest of the people involved in this conversation were all very respectful towards Liam and his content, and held the critical discussion with his best interests at heart. While having a big portion of your server criticizing you and your content sounds rough, the common sentiment was not malicious, and Liam has previously dealt with far harsher critiques of his content. We don't give a fuck that he left the Discord behind, that was his decision. We just find it extremely hypocritical and humorous considering his past actions that he has such paper thin skin.

Liam's DM to the mods.

Example of what the actual conversation was like below, the skin is thinning. We won't be posting the whole conversation to respect people's privacy (people wish for their comments to not be posted at all, so this is the best we can do while respecting their wishes).

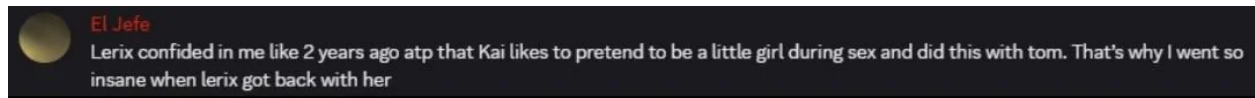

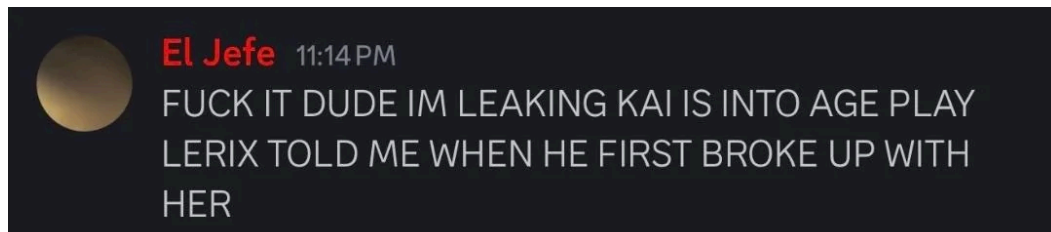

what we had.

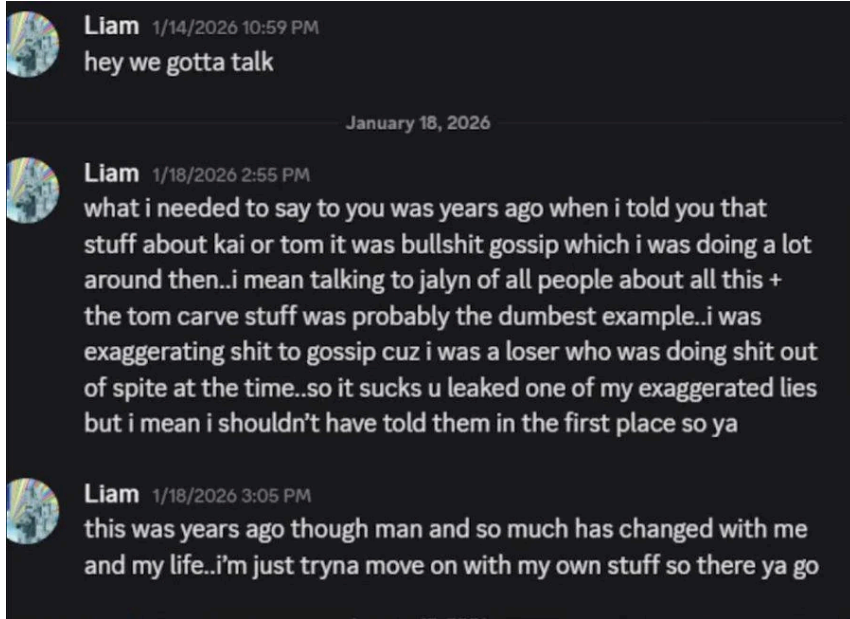

Apologies for the low quality, it's

Kai/Kaitlyn/MegaMawile/Mochapoka/Wish's Involvement

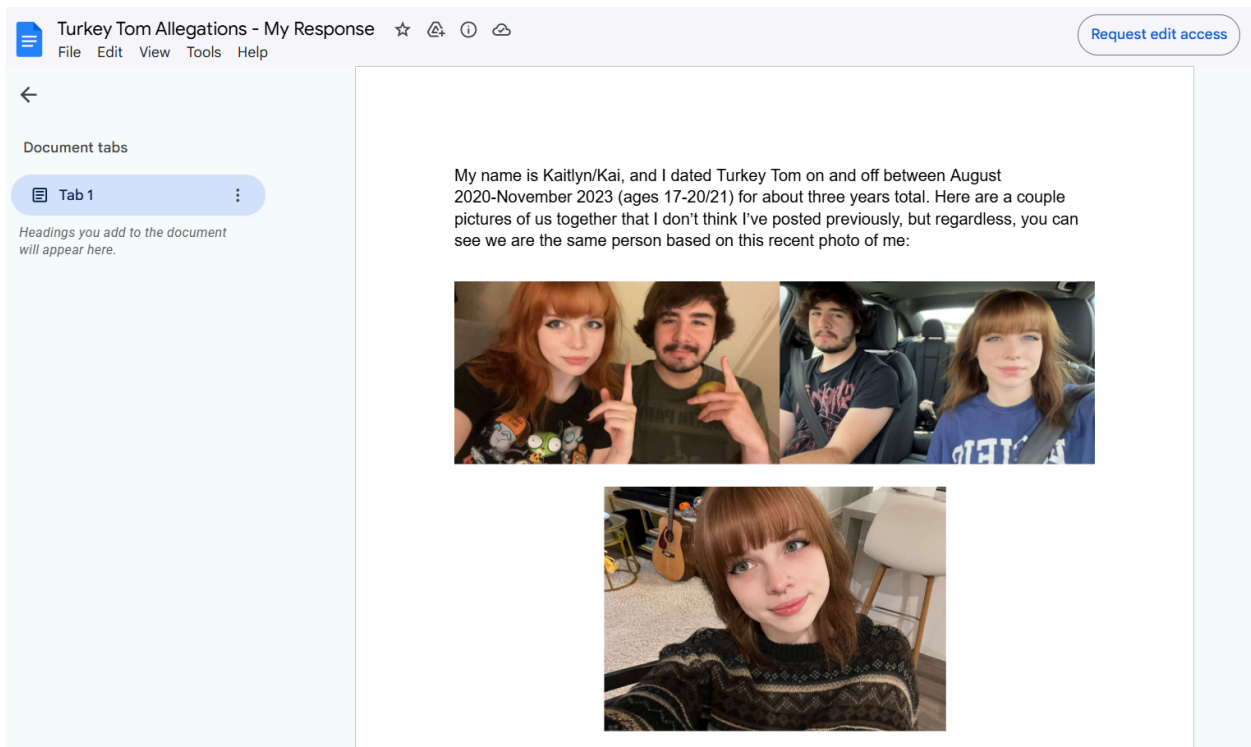

The claim that Kaitlyn is not involved with Liam's online presence/persona is completely false. Kai/Kaitlyn has been publicly involved with Lerix streams and was a moderator for LDM streams under the alias "Mochapoka." She has publicly appeared several times on his streams and is present and involved in the online drama commentary sphere. Liam even teased Kaitlyn's potential streaming channel, which at the time of writing this, hasn't been created yet. Even more behind the scenes actions have been taken by Kai than some realize. In the Parry call-in, we were unfairly jumping to conclusions in our attempt to snark Liam and Kai. Even though these statements were mostly jokes, our behavior was immature and childish. We take full accountability for any exaggerated or false claims made by us. Jokes about Kai's "force-fem kink" were completely unwarranted and there was no need to stoop to that level on a livestream. What we have confirmed as the truth is as follows; Kai is Liam's current girlfriend, before Lerix she dated commentary youtuber Turkey Tom. Tom and Kai were both accused of ageplay. Tom has released a video defending and exonerating himself of the majority of the serious allegations. Kai posted a google doc addressing the situation, and Liam DM'd Aiden Underground, the one who released this information.

In Liam's response stream to the mod call-in with Parry, while Liam was discussing the minor situation, Kai sent a chat message from her alt account, mega_mawile, jokingly accusing Strawberry of talking to 11 year olds in DMs (something Liam requested of the mod team, discussed earlier in the doc). It's a joke, but it's ironic coming from her and confirms her involvement in the community. Before this, it was confirmed by Aiden Underground that Liam's mod, Mochapoka, was also Kai's alt, but she likely deleted that account.

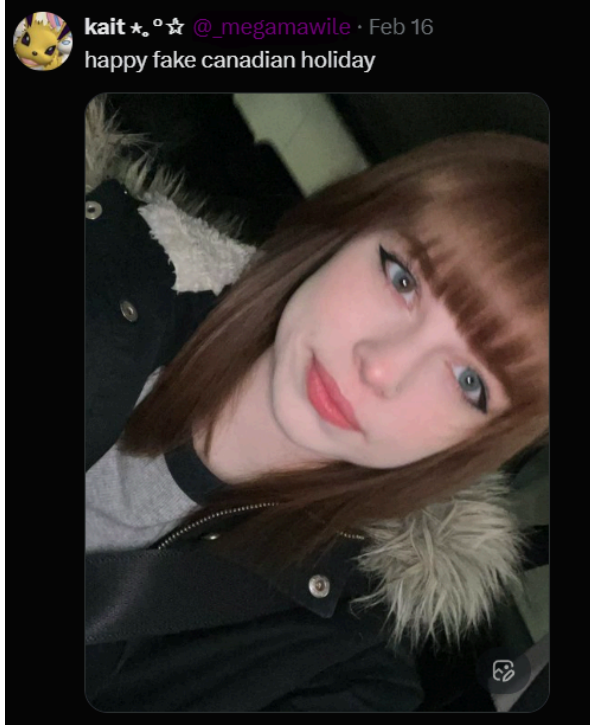

Liam's DM to Aiden.

Turkey Tom's Response:

Proof Kaitlyn's user is megamawile.

Next are Kai's old twitter accounts. She's been involved for some time. If you navigate to 2023, there are old selfies proving this is Kaitlyn.

Liam 9:03 PM

if you had any decency for the truth you wouldn't include obvious fake screenshots of someone impersonating kaitlyn saying such disgusting things...this is the same account that stole her old @ on twitter to harass her and say disgusting creepy shit like talking about incest and fucking dogs...what is wrong with you all this is so low to continue to lie and go after kaitlyn for this

I will go into depth in the next segment, but Kai was also she used to have a twitter under this @ but deactivated..so someone stole the username after it was deleted to say this disgusting shit posing as her say what you want about me but stop lying about kaitlyn it's so fucked up

I will go into depth in the next segment, but Kai was also involved with the person who leaked information from inside the Claw Discord server as Liam mentioned on his response stream.

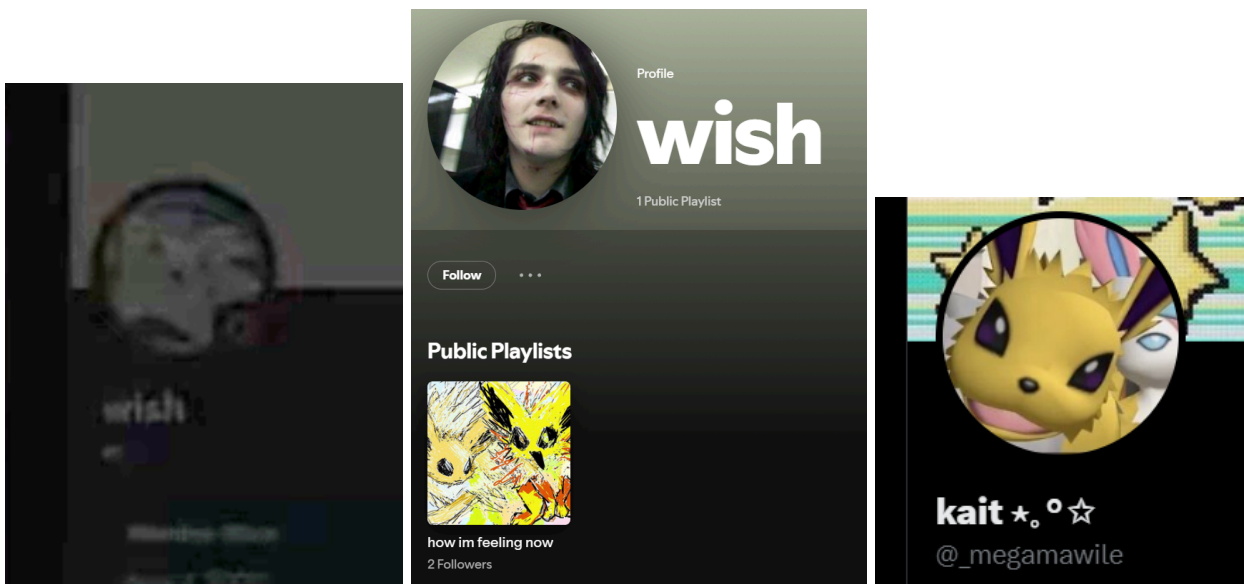

Here the Discord user

“wish” is seen talking in DMs with Liam, sharing screenshots from the leaker.

If you look on Liam’s Spotify account the only person he’s following is wish, who has a playlist containing songs Liam is known to listen to/use for his stream intros. The profile has a Gerard Way pfp, the lead vocalist of MCR, which is one of her favorite bands and the same band she introduced Liam to. Jolteon is the playlist cover which is the same Pokémon as Kai’s Twitter/X profile.

Claw Discord Server Spy

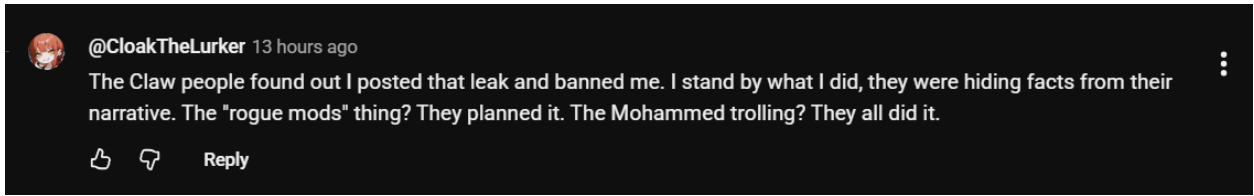

Following the LDM Discord nuke, around 30 former community members remained in the server as in Liam's words a "friend Discord". The mods decided to keep the original server as an archive and move over to a new server named The Claw. One person happened to be informing Liam about things being said in the server. The second image below has already been addressed in "The Fake Alts" section at the beginning of this doc. As for the first, the spy misinterpreted the joke. There was a bit of discussion revolving around remaining mods at the time deleting positive comments under Liam's videos and leaving stupid troll comments. While some of these messages come across as genuine, they are all jokes and no one has neither deleted nor intended to delete any comments under Liam's videos. Liam has stated in the past that he only has moderators for streams, and he does not want any mods messing with comments under Youtube videos. Never have any of us deleted any comments under his videos (except for ex-mod Everycafe, who has admitted on stream to deleting comments but has apologized for it and stopped after being told to do so. We are not affiliated with Everycafe in any way.).

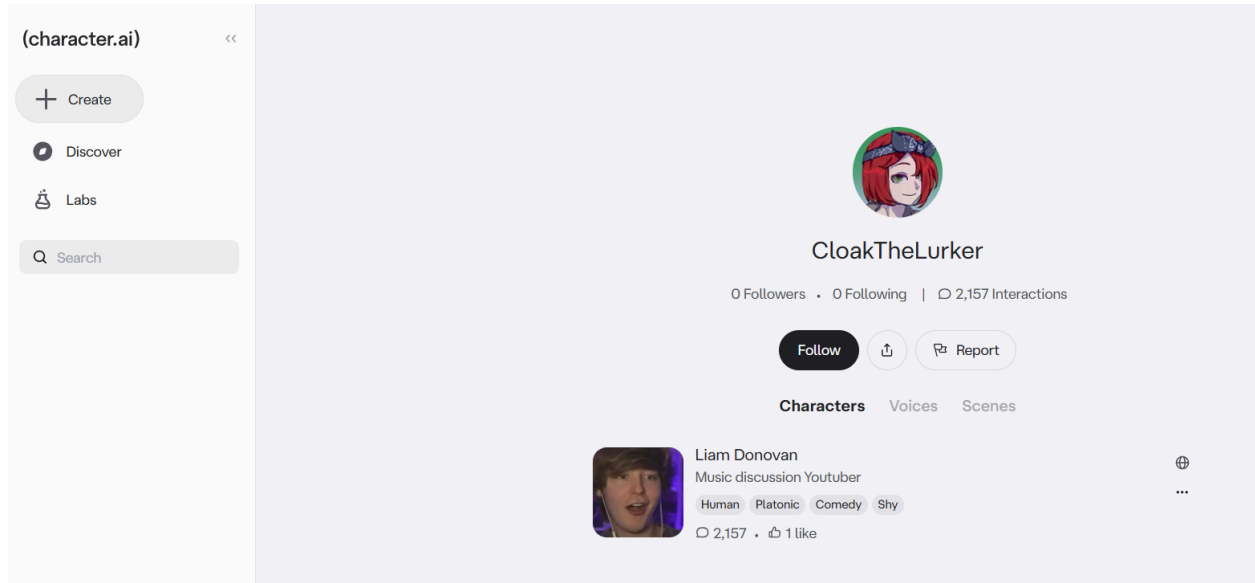

1/24/26, 11:05 PM
if he releases a really shitty video me and strawberry will delete all comments that are positive and leave it to you guys to just spam "im indifferent to these ballads"

CloakTheLurker has publicly stated he is the leaker and does not regret it. We figured since he doesn't regret that, he must not regret this account we found either. Liam has made it very clear that he is very uncomfortable with people making AI chatbots of him.

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1nzG_R4Jmc7KnfqFvxcl7FfXOgOFzUuZW/view?usp=sharing

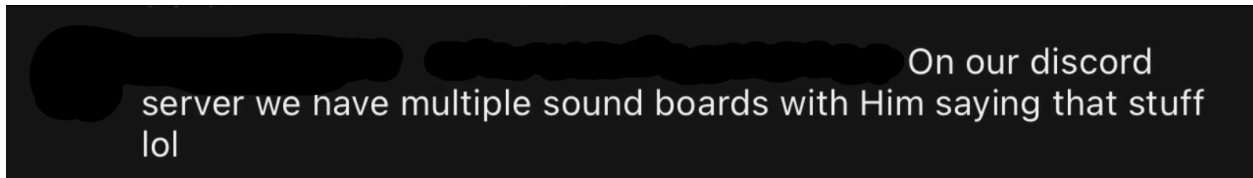

Liam stating his discomfort with AI chatbots of himself

Today (2/18/26) a post was made on the r/liamdonovanhex subreddit accusing Cloak of being a lolicon. We would like to say that this is not true at all. Despite his weird behavior and choices, there is no proof solid enough to show that Cloak is a genuine pedophile or lolicon. Because of this, the post was taken down. Please do not accuse Cloak or anyone mentioned in this document of such things if there is not genuine evidence proving said claims. To call someone a pedophile/lolicon is a big deal, and the words should not be thrown around so carelessly.

The Claw Isn't A Snark Server

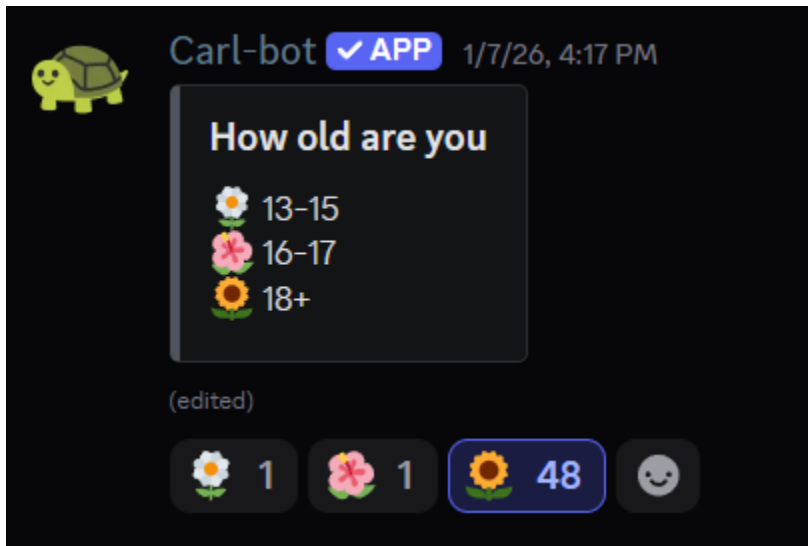

It has come to our attention that a member of the server has stated what is seen in the image below on a commentary Youtuber's stream. By "that stuff" this user means clips of Liam from his Lerix days saying controversial phrases and words. Yes, on our soundboard there are a few audios of Liam. However, people have taken this statement and have blown it out of proportion, saying that the Claw is a LDM snark server. This is not true. Liam is occasionally mentioned as we all came from his community. However, the Claw is not and never was a LDM server. It is a private server for people who have bonded over Liam's content for various reasons. It does not revolve around hating on Liam. Most discussions and activities are based on music, movies, art, gaming, etc. Most members of said Discord do not wish to involve themselves in this drama whatsoever.

LDM Server Minor Roles

Word's been going around that there were roles for minors in the original LDM Discord server. While this is technically true, the server was always strictly 18+. Anyone who selected one of the minor roles were automatically locked out of all server channels and would be manually banned by server mods. We did not allow them to stay in our server. It was a trick to filter them out. Truthfully, it wasn't and isn't the best method of removing underaged members, however we were not given permission to set up a bot with a functional age verification system, and the server was nuked before we ever could anyway.

Hi! I'm a little confused. Which part of the post was targeted harassment? Was it the post regarding being stuck in purgatory cuz I was just a little frustrated and I apologize.

And I was also confused on why the posts were being withheld so please explain to me what I said that crossed the line. It was not my intention to insult or harass. I thought I was just being funny

I'm gonna be so honest. I was not apart of the attacks and never made an alt trying to harass you and Kaitlyn. That's a line that I do not cross with any person

If you remember the vc we had in the og LDM server, I had a genuine conversation with you objectively expressing my grievances with all that happened and I never wanted anything to get out of hand in this way

Speculating about people's personal lives is a line that I do not cross

I have been so reasonable every step of the way with a lot of these people who have turned out to be hate filled spiteful people. Now looking back i see that was all a waste and i'm not allowing anyone who was apart of it (even if you didn't do something specifically) choosing to go along with it is never allowed in any space i'm in. If you need more details look at the post on the subreddit + stream.

I did look at the subreddit and the stream ty. Thinking back, i shouldn't have let this slide even if originally, it was supposed fo be a joke, but it got so out of hand. I'm not going to argue about it any further since you already made up your mind. It's a shame that I won't be able to active in here anymore cuz i loved posting on here, but at the same time, good luck with any future endeavors. Hope the videos go well and that you and Kaitlyn have a good one. I'll still watch your videos from time to time and yeah. Have a good one

Well i appreciate you acknowledging that, and understanding where i'm coming from. I'm still not comfortable allowing anyone apart of this to be welcome on my channel; however i do appreciate you saying this..i have said/done a lot of things that i totally regret that were horrible (especially online which is worse) so i get it. Best wishes though

When this Subreddit was first created, it was not to actually snark Liam. It was a replacement for the original snark owned by Meart who was also just messing around and a fan of Liam's at the time. Ratt Fink has stated that he made it solely as a joke; he literally said it's a place for magick, dude. (btw Liam, in that post I (Strawberry) made referring to Ratt Fink being banned for 3 days, I was talking about from Reddit, not your Youtube chat. When I referred to him saying the word in that post he was calling ME that word, not you. On top of this, Ratt is openly LGBTQ+ and is not using slurs in malice, all jokes. When he said faggots in our community he was obviously referencing himself among others.) Obviously, the Subreddit has taken a more serious turn, and there are more serious things happening on it now. That was not our intent when it was created and both Silly Strawberry and Ratt Fink intend to abdicate their positions on the hex as they don't want to deal with moderating.
