Keep moving the goalpost, that was just one of the videos to come up. Youtube is filled with all his little "mistakes". So cope all you want, anyone with a brain who is not in some kind of weird parasocial relationship with the streamer can see it.

Why do you think he done a 180 and moved to kick? He still loosing people on twitch, only has a handful of chatters left (rest are bots, who don't say a thing) and most of his subs he gifts himself trough his alts (newly made accounts that never chatted and dropping 100+ subs in a month)

The guy became a lowcow and the internet knows it. permalink embed save parent report reply

NikosStrifios 1 point 2 days ago | Keep moving the goalpost, I don't. Never did. that was just one of the videos to come up. Then you will have no issue to bring up something legit this time. Youtube is filled with all his little "mistakes". They are not "mistakes", they are just that at worst. Innocent little mistakes which do not legitimize the crusade against him, not the torches and pitchforks you grabbed. So cope all you want, You cope mate, just look at the "evidence"you provided. That's the epitome of cope. anyone with a brain who is not in some kind of weird parasocial relationship with the streamer can see it You lot are in a weird parasocial relationship with him. You along with all the pathetic little channels who try to milk the drama by promoting said parasocial activity. Anyone with an actual brain can see that. Why do you think he done a 180 and moved to kick? He still loosing people on twitch He is fine much to your dismay, and I don't care that much to be honest. He could quit twitch for all I care. only has a handful of chatters left (rest are bots, who don't say a thing) and most of his subs he gifts himself trough his alts (newly made accounts that never chatted and dropping 100+ subs in a month) Is this fake data the thing you read before you go to sleep so you can rest more easily? Weird parasocial behavior at its finest. The guy became a lowcow and the internet knows it. The internet is consisted of the average Joe. People like you are not in a position to "know" anything. Prime example of ignorant masses and zealots.

DahwhiteRabbit 1 point 2 days ago | The problem is his lack of accountability, he fucks up the and pulls yhe oculus freaks out on his team before he even knows what happen threatens to kick people, and then finds out it was him dosent say "Oops my bad that was an over reaction" Nope suddenly he played perfectly shit happens. Then we have his interview live on twitch with a therapist who proves hes a narrsasist and he actively denies it during the mental health interview with no intention of even exploring it despite mental health being the entire point of the interview. The wov incident was a mistake he lied said he didnt have mana he did, he had mana gem, he, had robe, he blinks, he continued to lie after. All of this would be mostly fine if the days before this he had not just roasted an older player in the group for making a similar mistake during a raid and he ended up taking a ton of hate because of that till he quit wow. thor had nothing to say on this topic. despite having just roasted another mage for bad play... Then theres his game and the whole code situation there people reviewing the code and calling out massive issues. then we have the consistent "Oh where working on ot all the time" despite the fact most of his streams not being about the game and so on. Theres more but i think thats enough for now. Thor is a funny dude but he needs to be more accountable.

NikosStrifios 1 point 2 days ago | The problem is his lack of accountability, he fucks up the and pulls yhe oculus freaks out on his team before he even knows what happen threatens to kick people, and then finds out it was him dosent say "Oops my bad that was an over reaction" Nope suddenly he played perfectly shit happens. He would have probably said the same for another person if that person made the same "mistake" as he did. And yes not really a mistake since when he cast lighting bolt, there was nothing there. He threatened to kick only if someone pulled the Oculus for no reason, other than to troll the group which was farming for 5 hours only to lose all the materials. Then we have his interview live on twitch with a therapist who proves hes a narrsasist and he actively denies it during the mental health interview with no intention of even exploring it despite mental health being the entire point of the interview. Dunno about that, and frankly don't care, I would have a bad reaction as well to someone who was calling me live on twitch a narcissist. Don't even care if he is really a narcissist and that "therapist", was on point. As a "therapist", he would have to know better than to insult someone by bringing up something so sensitive in front of thousands of people IMO. The wov incident was a mistake he lied said he didnt have mana he did, he had mana gem, he, had robe, he blinks, he continued to lie after. All of this would be mostly fine if the days before this he had not just roasted an older player in the group for making a similar mistake during a raid and he ended up taking a ton of hate because of that till he quit wow. thor had nothing to say on this topic. despite having just roasted another mage for bad play... He wouldn't be able to save anyone, mana or not. As I said, I am not interested on discussing this particular incident because I have already done so 683825783 times. There are tons of content creators who now hate on him only because "it's cool" but took his side during the WoW incident, that alone speaks volumes on who is right and who is wrong here. And yes, he can roast whoever he likes if he believes they play bad. This is no valid reason to hate on him either, otherwise people like Asmon shouldn't have a single viewer. Then theres his game and the whole code situation there people reviewing the code and calling out massive issues. then we have the consistent "Oh where working on ot all the time" despite the fact most of his streams not being about the game and so on. Ok just a thought experiment. Let's just go with "PS is a terrible programmer who cannot code properly", just for the sake of the following argument. You have to ask yourself, is this really a reason to hate someone? Especially the guy who has made a couple of shorts explaining to everyone that it doesn't matter if your code is bad or not as long as it works because the player sees only the end result and not your code? They guy who constantly encourages everyone to try their hand on coding no matter how "bad" they think they are at this? Thor is a funny dude but he needs to be more accountable. No he doesn't. His ability to take accountability is not something that makes him a better or worse streamer. There are more popular content creators out there with worse personalities, who for some reason, have tons of viewers.

DahwhiteRabbit 0 points 2 days ago | "He would have probably said the same for another person if that person made the same "mistake" as he did. The Oculus not really a mistake since when he cast lighting bolt, there was nothing there. He threatened to kick only if someone pulled the Oculus for no reason, other than to troll the group which was farming for 5 hours only to lose all the materials." Thor: "I swear to god i am gunna get one of the video find out who pulled that dam thing and kick them out of the raid. That is insane shit you have to be better then that. One of you videoed an oculus and just waped the whole party for no reason. And we lost all of thoughts materials cause you are not paying attention, this is basic shit we are not puring thalls oculuss..." he goes on to lambast the offender for several minutes, this is VERBATUM his words and it gets worse theres actually more he says before and after this. he also threatens to disband the group more then once during this, this does not match your claims. "Dunno about that, and frankly don't care" brother it was the entire point of the stream the mental health guy interviews streamers they consent to the entire interaction he offers them potential diagnoses to help them, thats the whole point of the deal they talk you get personal he gives you a look at some problems you might have so you can better your self.... the context is kind of the entire point my man. "He wouldn't be able to save anyone, mana or not. As I said, I am not interested on discussing this particular incident because I have already done so" then dont write a paragraph on it just leave it dead and we can move on. "There are tons of content creators who now hate on him only because "it's cool" but took his side during the WoW incident," ah but you didnt the real reason he got so much hate is very simple. Zero accountability, and literally a few days before he lambasted other newer players for making similar mistakes. he made claims in the moment that were not true and all he had to do was say "shit i totally forgot about mana gem in the heat of the moment my bad." and that would have likely killed this drama in its crib. But he had to ego post on other players wich by the way ended up getting them flooded with hate and they ended up leaving the event cause of this exact interaction. "he can roast whoever he likes if he believes they play bad. This is no valid reason to hate on him either, otherwise people like Asmon shouldn't have a single viewer." Sure you can roast people! but when that person then goes on to make a heartfelt video only blow up this is causing them alot of issues and there now getting tons of hate, and it wasent one big streamer it was a guy who only blew up cause of the event and before that was getting maybe a hundred or so he was an older guy, and pirate couldnt be bothered to be like "hay guys i dont want to spread hate to some old guy chill out." but he has time to complain about every one hating on him for these events? thats turbo hypocritical, he did things worthy of critique and then complained when people mobbed him for it, but when he does the same thing to others its totally fine? "Ok just a thought experiment. Let's just go with "PS " it wouldnt be! thor was doing a great job at encouraging coders and people to make games it was fantastic! buuuuuuuuu then he makes some spicy comments and talks down to people and suddenly now this has to be called into question. like i said on most other topics here about PS is that its all 2 steps back 1 step forward Do a good thing but mire it in bad behaviour and take no accountability for it. "No he doesn't. His ability to take accountability is not something that makes him a better or worse streamer. There are more popular content creators out there with worse personalities, who for some reason, have tons of viewers." Your right and most of them LIVE with the hate they get they dont discourage it they make jokes about it they turn it into part of the spectacle its called being a "Heel" in wrestling terms the goal is to be "The Bad guy" dosent need to be cant do other things but its part of there online persona Asmongold himself does this he frequently walks the line between Heel and "Baby face" one moment asmongold will be throwing out some wild takes the next hes talking about giving money too charity, helping his mom and dad, and doing what appologizing for said bad takes that went too far. Meanwhile thor either A ignores it. B bans it, or C complains about it. Thor is trying to be a likeable baby face while also acting like a heel, and it just dosent work in the court of public opinions.

Filmsy_Lake_3571 0 points 2 days ago | A weird parasocial relationship is trying to lie for a guy who is lying himself, when witnessing the exact opposite of what he is lying about. Several times over. Jason, Stop it. Grow up.

NikosStrifios 1 point 2 days ago | A weird parasocial relationship is hating on a promoter for insignificant reasons and baseless accusations. And all that just because parasocial relationship gnomers told you so. It's you who need to grow up kiddo. Filmsy_Lake_3571 0 points 2 days ago | Hahaha Circular arguments (now im supposed to give more evidence and then more and then more, you asked, it was given by multiple people) and copying what I say. You probably actually believe youre right here too. You have the same mind virus and ego issue that your master does. Get some help and you will grow and have a better life. Its ok to be bad at video games. Its ok to be wrong. Its ok to admit these facts and get better. Peace be with you brother.

NikosStrifios 1 point 2 days ago | Circular arguments (now im supposed to give more evidence and then more and then more, you asked, it was given by multiple people) and copying what I say. You never provided any evidence on anything. You, or anyone else. And all I am saying is that your unwanted advice would have been more useful if they were said in front of a mirror. But I guess, you don't have the mental capacity to get it. You probably actually believe youre right here too. I don't believe it. I know it. You have the same mind virus and ego issue that your master does. Unlike you, I have no masters who tell me what to think and who to hate for no apparent reason. Once again, you are projecting your flaws on me. Get some help and you will grow and have a better life. My life is fine much to your dismay. You are obviously projecting again. Its ok to be bad at video games. Its ok to be wrong. Not according to you. Apparently, these are valid reasons to start an online crusade on someone. Peace be with you brother. I am not your brother, I want to have nothing with hypocrites like you.
