

Business Major very heavy on Media Production and Computer Skills

OBJECTIVE

To work for a company that will allow me to bring creative solutions to problems. As you look through this resume, you might notice that my skills are extremely diverse. I've created computer networks from scratch, but I've also syndicated a successful comic strip. I've personally financed and managed a $150,000 film project, and I've interned for Senator Trent Lott.

The reason for such an eclectic mix of skills is I'm an extremely goal-oriented person. Once I have an objective, I will learn whatever is necessary to accomplish my objectives. This is what I consider to be my biggest strength.

My more immediate skills revolve around digital media. I have worked on innumerable projects in newspapers, television, music, photography, and web sites. Secondary is my vast amount of technical knowledge. From repairing crashed machines to helping implement new software, I can be your company's "Swiss Army Knife", helping to reduce expensive outsourcing jobs.

What I feel makes me unique is my strong education in business. Millsaps College is renowned for the "Else School of Management". I am well educated in the fields of marketing, economics, accounting and finance. I've worked hard outside the classroom to implement what I've learned. Unlike many other people with technology skills, I understand the big picture of what a business has to do to succeed
